

1 federal personal income tax liabilities of Respondent's brother, Michael A. Scott. [Declaration of 2 Revenue Agent Michael Delgado, in Support of Petition, ("Delgado Decl."), ¶ 2.] The first two 3 summonses, The Scott Angels Summons and the MAKDS Summons, were issued on June 8, 2007 to 4 Respondent in her capacity as a trustee of an entities known as the Scott Angels Pure Trust and the 5 MAKDS Pure Trust. The summonses related to the personal income tax liability of Michael A. Scott
6 for the tax year 2001. [Delgado Decl., ¶3.] The third summons, the Dawn/Oasis Summons, was issued
7 to Respondent on August 21, 2008 and related to the personal income tax liability of Respondent for 8 tax year 2001. [Delgado Decl., ¶ 7.] The fourth summons, the Tapestry/Meadows Summons, was issued 9 to Respondent on February 28, 2008 and related the tax liability of Respondent for tax years 2005 and 10 2006. [Delgado Decl., ¶ 11.] All summonses directed Respondent to appear before Revenue Agent
11 Delgado by a certain date to provide testimony and produce for examination books, papers, records, or 12 other data as described in the summonses or attachments to the summonses. [Delgado Decl., ¶¶ 6, 10,
13 13.] Revenue Agent Delgado served all four summonses on the Respondent by handing her an attested
14 copy of each summons, in accordance with 26 U.S.C. § 7603. [Delgado Decl., ¶¶ 4, 8, 12.]
15 Additionally, as required by Section 7609(a) of Title 26 of the United States Code, Revenue Agent
16 Delgado served notice of the Scott Angels Summons, MAKDS Summons, and the Dawn/Oasis
17 Summons to the third party noticees, Michael A. Scott and Kerry D. Scott, as identified in the 18 summonses. [Delgado Decl., ¶¶ 5,9.] Neither noticee filed a proceeding to quash summonses. [Id.]

19 Respondent did not appear for any of the dates set by the summonses and did not provide 20 Revenue Agent Delgado with any of the documents or testimony required by the summonses. [Delgado
21 Decl., ¶¶ 6, 10, 13.] Respondent has contacted Revenue Agent Delgado by sending letters stating that 22 there was no filing requirement for the trust and no taxes were required for the trust. [Petition, ¶¶ 9, 17.]
23 Each letter also included a copy of the issued summonses with a stamp mark "returned for fraud."
24 [Delgado Decl., Ex. E.]

25 To date, Respondent has not complied with the summonses and has not provided any testimony 26 or documents requested by the four summonses. While the IRS has received some documents from 27 third party sources in response to subpoena or summons requests, documents and oral testimony from 28 Respondent is still required and the books, papers, records, and other data sought by the summonses are

1 not already in the possession of the Internal Revenue Service. [Petition, ¶ 18.]

2 On June 4, 2008, the Government petitioned the Court to enforce the summonses. On June 6, 3 2008, the Court set a hearing date for this matter and ordered Respondent to show cause why she should 4 not be compelled to comply with the IRS summons. The IRS served the order to show cause on 5 Respondent on June 13, 2008 and filed proof of service with the Court. On June 24, 2008, Respondent
6 filed a motion to quash. The Government filed an opposition to the Motion on August 4, 2008. On 7 August 18, 2008, a hearing was held on the Petition and Motion before this Court.

8 DISCUSSION

9 Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 7602(a)(1), the Secretary of the Treasury may “examine any books, 10 papers, records, or other data which may be relevant or material” in connection with “ascertaining the 11 correctness of any return, making a return where none has been made, determining the liability of any 12 person for any internal revenue. . . or collecting any such liability.” Section 7602(a)(1) authorizes the 13 Secretary to issue summonses to compel persons in possession of such books, papers, records, or other 14 data to appear and produce the same and/or give testimony.

15 In order to obtain judicial enforcement of an IRS summons, the United States “must first 16 establish its ‘good faith’ by showing that the summons: (1) is issued for a legitimate purpose; (2) seeks 17 information relevant to that purpose.; (3) seeks information that is not already within the IRS’
18 possession; and (4) satisfies all administrative steps required by the United States Code.” Fortney v.
19 United States, 59 F.3d 117, 119(9th Cir. 1995) (citing United States v. Powell, 379 U.S. 48, 57-20 58(1964)). “The government’s burden is a ‘slight one’ and typically is satisfied by the introduction of 21 the sworn declaration of the revenue agent who issued the summons that Powell requirements have been 22 met.” Id. at 120. Once the government has made a prima facie showing that enforcement of the 23 summons is appropriate, the burden shifts to the Respondent to show that enforcement of the summons 24 would be an abuse of the court’s process. Powell, 379 U.S. at 58. The Supreme Court has characterized 25 respondent’s burden as a heavy one. Id.

26 The government’s petition and Revenue Agent’s Delgado’s supporting declaration satisfies all 27 four elements of the Powell standard. First, the IRS is conducting investigations with respect to 28 Respondent’s income tax liability for tax years 2001, 2005, 2006 and Respondent’s brother’s income

1 tax liability for tax year 2001. [Delgado Decl., ¶ 2 and 17]. Such investigations are expressly authorized
 2 by 26 U.S.C. § 7602(a). The Internal Revenue Code explicitly allows the issuance of summons for the 3 purpose of determining “the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax...or collecting any such 4 liability..” 26 U.S.C. § 7602(a). Thus, the summonses were issued for a legitimate purpose. Second,
 5 Revenue Agent Delgado has declared in his affidavit that the information requested by the summonses
 6 may be relevant to the IRS determination of Respondent’s and Respondent’s brother’s personal tax
 7 liability. [Id., ¶ 13.] Third, the IRS does not already possess the papers, records, and other data sought
 8 by the summonses issued to Respondent. [Id., ¶ 15.] Finally, the IRS has followed and exhausted all 9 required administrative steps, but Respondent has not complied with the summonses. [Id., ¶ 16.] Thus, 10 the government has made a prima facie showing that it is entitled to judicial enforcement of the 11 summons. There is no Department of Justice referral in effect regarding Ms. Cobb as described in 26
 12 U.S.C. § 7602(d). [Id., ¶ 18.]

13 Once a prima facie case has been made, “a heavy burden falls on the taxpayer” to show an abuse
 14 of the court’s process or lack of institutional good faith. Stewart v. United States, 511 F.3d 1251, 1255
 15 (9th Cir. 2008); United States v. Dynavac, 6 F.3d 1407, 1414 (9th Cir. 1993). The taxpayer “must allege 16 specific facts and evidence to support [her] allegations.” Liberty Financial Services, 778 F.2d at 1392.
 17 Here, Respondent has failed to allege any facts or evidence that the issued IRS summonses were issued
 18 in bad faith or an abuse of court process. In her motion to quash, Respondent argues the IRS lacks 19 jurisdiction over her because of her Private status as a non-taxpayer. [Motion to Quash, Doc. No. 7, p.
 20 2.] Respondent argues the revenue laws apply only to taxpayers and not to non-taxpayers such as 21 herself. Respondent also argues her family’s Pure Trusts have foreign status and therefore have no tax
 22 filing requirements. [Id., p. 3.]

23 Congress has imposed a tax on the taxable income of every individual, whether married or 24 single, as well as upon estates and trusts. 26 U.S.C. § 1(a) - (e). Congress has also granted the Secretary
 25 of the Treasury broad authority to discover and enforce individual income tax assessments.^{1/} 26 U.S.C.
 26 § 7601 et seq. As relevant to this action, the statute provides as follows:

 28 ^{1/} The IRS, as a delegate of the Secretary of Treasury, has the authority to issue summons to investigate a taxpayer’s federal income tax liability. United States v. Derr, 968 F.2d 943, 945 (9th Cir. 1992).

1 For the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return, making a return where none has 2 been made, determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax . . . the Secretary is authorized –

3 (1) To examine any books, papers, records, or other data which may be relevant 4 or material to such inquiry;

5 * * *

6 (3) To take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry.

7 26 U.S.C. § 7602(a) (emphasis added).

8 Furthermore, Congress has given the district courts jurisdiction to hear petitions to enforce IRS
 9 summons. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 7604(a), “[i]f any person is summoned under the internal revenue
 10 laws to appear, to testify, or to produce books, papers, records, or other data, the United States district
 11 court for the district in which such person resides or is found shall have jurisdiction by appropriate 12 process to compel such attendance, testimony, or production of books, papers, records, or other data.” 13 (Emphasis added). Both § 7602(a) and § 7604(a) give the IRS authority to seek information from “any 14 person,” and there is no requirement that the IRS first demonstrate that the individual has taxable 15 income or is liable to pay a tax.

16 The Ninth Circuit has found that the payment of federal income taxes is not voluntary. In re
 17 Becraft, 885 F.2d 547, 548 (9th Cir. 1989) (noting that the court “need comment on the patent absurdity
 18 and frivolity” of respondent’s argument that the Constitution does not authorize Congress to implement 19 an individual income tax); see also Wilcox v. Commissioner, 848 F.2d 1007, 1008 (9th Cir. 1988) 20 (rejecting taxpayer’s arguments that payment of taxes is voluntary and that income tax violates the 21 Constitution). The Ninth Circuit has also found the argument made by Respondent, that she is not a 22 taxpayer, to be frivolous. United States v. Studley, 783 F.2d 934, 937 (9th Cir. 1985). Therefore, 23 Respondent has failed to meet the burden of proof of showing an “abuse of process” or “the lack of 24 institutional good faith.” Fortney, 59 F.3d at 119, citing Dynavac, 6 F.3d 1407; Liberty Financial 25 Services, 778 F.2d at 1393.
